

2ND GRADER SELECTED TO DESIGN OUR NEW LIBRARY

Project awarded to Marlo Saeger.

Our school staff recognized Marlo's reading and language skills were advanced for her grade level. EL-G wanted to challenge Marlo by involving her in an activity to build on those skills and further develop her research and presentation abilities. Marlo, along with her teachers and her enrichment program coordinator, selected a project - designing a new school library. It involves researching catalogs for furniture and supplies, using Legos to build a 3D model and budgeting total costs. When completed, Marlo will present her plan to the librarian, the principal, school staff and her second grade class. We'd like to think some of her recommendations could actually be implemented.

Marlo is not the only student being offered additional enrichment activities. It happens at all grade levels and the students involved can be challenged academically, physically and socially.

If you'd like to learn more about our teacher-created assessment tools or how we challenge every student with a personalized education, please contact either principal, Debbie Hammann or Jim Brown, to answer questions, schedule a tour, or even to sit in a classroom or two.
